1. The Wind and the Sun

The wind and the sun were old friends, but one day, they argued about who was the strongest.

During their argument, a man walked below them on the road. "I know", said the wind. "Whoever can make the man take off his jacket will be declared the strongest!".

As soon as the wind said that, he started to blow as hard as he could.

It's so strange! Why is the wind so strong today!" said the man as he held onto his jacket tightly.

Then the sun came out and started to shine as bright as he could. Unable to bear the rising heat, the man finally took off his jacket.

And that's how the sun won the argument.

2. The Fisherman and the little fish

Once there was a fisherman who lived in a little house by the ocean. He fished every day to feed his family.

One day, he caught nothing except one small fish. "This is not much," thought the fisherman, but it is better than nothing,"

The fish hopped around in the net and cried, "Wait! I'm just a tiny fish now and I'm too small to be a good dinner!

Throw me back in the water, and I will grow and grow, and one day make you a fine meal!

"Oh no! Little fish" said the fisherman, "I have you now, but I may never catch you again!
